This is the fourteenth of a series of new-style county histories which will include all of the 102 counties of Illinois and, ultimately, all of the 3,103 counties in the United States. The project, specializing in aerial photographs of cities, towns, villages and farmsteads and with brief historical narratives added, is known as The American Aerial County History Series.

In the preparation of this work on Menard County, Illinois, the author and publisher hereby acknowledge their gratitude, for advice and assistance generously given them, to Mr. Joseph C. Wolf and Mrs. Ellen Chase of the Newberry Library, Chicago; to Mr. Herbert H. Hewitt, Mrs. Roberta Sutton and Miss Winifred Baum, all of the Chicago Public Library, Chicago; and to various librarians, public officials, business executives and private citizens of the city of Petersburg and the county of Menard, Illinois. The author also wishes to express special acknowledgment to his wife, Marion Neville Drury, for research, editorial and proof-reading assistance.

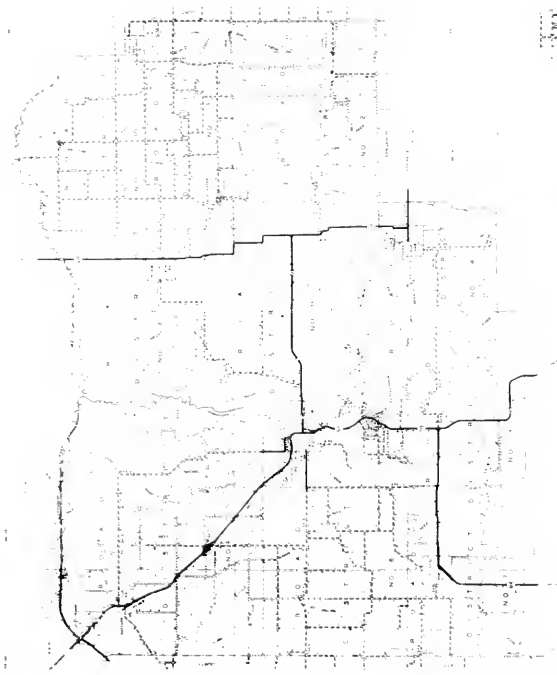

Grateful appreciation is also shown here to officials of the Bureau of Public Roads of the U. S. Department of Commerce and to officials of the Department of Public Works & Planning of the State of Illinois (in particular to those in charge of that department's Bureau of Research and Planning in the Highway Department), for permission to use the Menard County maps included in this book.

Story of Menard County, Illinois

One of America's two most famous historical restorations is located in Menard County, Illinois. This is New Salem State Park, popularly known as "The Lincoln Village." As with America's other renowned restoration, Colonial Williamsburg in Virginia, the state park in central Illinois attracts thousands of tourists each year from all parts of the United States and from practically every country in the world at large.

For here, in this primitive Menard County community, one can see the frontier American village in which Abraham Lincoln began his public career and from which he went out to become one of this nation's greatest Presidents and a world hero of the first rank. Here are the kind of rude log cabins, faithfully and authentically restored, in which the Saviour of His Country lived, studied law, worked as a store clerk, served as postmaster and told humorous tales to his fellow villagers. It was in this humble Midwest village he was saddened by the early death of his sweetheart, Ann Rutledge, and it was in this village he was first elected to the Illinois state legislature.

If New Salem State Park, marking the end of the great Lincoln National Memorial Highway through Indiana and Illinois, is the principal sight of Menard County, it is not the only one. For just two miles north of the log cabin village lies the county's seat of justice, Petersburg, an old Sangamon River town that was surveyed by Abraham Lincoln. In Petersburg, too, stands the boyhood home of the late American poet and author, Edgar Lee Masters, who besides his classic Spoon River Anthology, wrote an outstanding biography of the Great Emancipator, published in 1931 and entitled Lincoln the Man.

Aside from its many and important Lincoln associations, however, Menard County is of interest as one of the leading agricultural counties of the vast Grain Belt in central Illinois. In 1950 more than 39 per cent of its total employed persons were engaged in agriculture, while only 8.2 per cent were engaged in manufacturing. The value of all of its farm products (crops, livestock, poultry and dairy products) sold in 1949 was $9,754,000. The county's seat of justice, Petersburg, is located twenty miles northwest of Springfield, capital of Illinois.

Indian Occupation

Before Menard County was formed, before any white settlements at all were made in the region it afterwards embraced, the locality was occupied by a number of villages of the Kickapoo tribe of Indians.

Most of these Indians fished along the Sangamon River or hunted on the prairies in the countryside beyond the river. After the signing of the Treaty of Edwardsville in 1819, however, the Kickapoos gradually left the area that afterwards became Menard County. They moved westward beyond the Mississippi River, as they agreed to do when they signed the treaty.

First Settlers

With the Indians leaving the region, there came the earliest white settlers of future Menard County. Believed to have been the first to arrive here was John Clary, who staked out a claim in April, 1819, and who founded a settlement later called Clary's Grove.

Some years afterwards, a group of young roustabouts of this settlement, known as the Clary Grove Boys, descended on New Salem village and were about to gang up on young Abe Lincoln in a fisticuff battle; one in which their husky champion, Jack Armstrong, was losing to Lincoln. But when Lincoln offered to fight any one of them single handed, they backed away, and that marked the end of the encounter. Thereafter, the Clary Grove Boys and Lincoln became good friends.

After staking out his claim near the present village of Tallula, John Clary built a log cabin and laid out a small farm. But he remained here only a few years, selling out to Thomas Watkins, who later sold the tract to George Spears. In the meantime, the Clarys moved to what later became Sandridge Township, and there established the settlement of Clary's Grove. At a later time, after Menard County was organized, John Clary was elected one of the county's earliest commissioners.

Most of those who afterwards settled in and around Clary's Grove were from southern states. Among the earliest families here were the Armstrongs, Greenes, Potters, McHenrys, Pratts and Kirbys. By this time another settlement had been established in what later became Sugar Grove Township (so-named because the Indians made sugar there), and the first to arrive here was James Latham, afterwards a judge. He was later joined by James Boyer and James Meadows, brothers-in-law, and by the Blaine family. Then came William Engle, who was to become one of the founding fathers of Menard County.

New Salem Platted

When Sangamon County was created in 1821, it included the region that now is Menard County. Thus, Clary's Grove and Sugar Grove were in Sangamon County when they were first settled. So, also, was New Salem when it was platted in 1828 by James Rutledge, and John Cameron. The first-named was the father of Ann Rutledge, who became the object of Abe Lincoln's attentions after his arrival in New Salem in 1831.

It was about 1825 that James Rutledge and John Cameron came to the Sangamon River site where later was built New Salem. Here, they constructed a crude and primitive grist mill and soon it was being patronized by farmers from all parts of the countryside. Then Rutledge and Cameron decided to lay out a town at the site of their mill. A surveyor, Reuben Harrison, platted the town in 1828, and the first lot was sold on January 4, 1829.

In addition to Rutledge and Cameron, other early settlers of New Salem were Jonathan Dunn, also a miller; Henry Onstot, cooper; Edmund Greer, justice of the peace, Mentor Graham, school teacher; John H. Kelso, tavernkeeper; Martin Waddell, hatter; and William Berry, Reuben Radford, Allen Richardson, William G. Greene, Dr. John Allen, Samuel Hill and John McNamar. As may be readily seen, most of these names are familiar ones in any biography of Lincoln.

Abe Lincoln Arrives

When Abe Lincoln, then a lanky lad of twenty-two, arrived at New Salem for the first time in the summer of 1831, it happened to be Election Day in the hill-top village on the Sangamon. As voting was then by acclamation, the election clerk soon found himself swamped with work. He could not write down the names of the voters fast enough. Looking up, the clerk asked Abe if he could write. When Abe replied that he "guessed he could make a few rabbit tracks," the clerk sought his assistance, which was cheerfully given. And thus on his first day in New Salem the future President of the United States made his bow as a public servant.

Later, young Abe Lincoln worked in Offut's general store, and, when business was slack, read a textbook on grammar under the shade of a tree outside the store. Then came the Black Hawk War of 1832. In that conflict Lincoln served as a captain of militia. When it was over, Lincoln returned to New Salem, opened a merchandise store in association with a partner, and when this failed he was appointed postmaster of New Salem. He also secured for himself an appointment as deputy surveyor for Sangamon County.

About this time, too, Lincoln was first elected to the Illinois state legislature. While serving in that body, he became interested in the study of law, and, borrowing some law books from his friend John T. Stuart, soon was deeply immersed in the subject. Mostly, he read these books in the cabin homes of friends in New Salem, between sessions of the legislature. Then, in 1837, he was admitted to the Illinois bar. In April of that year, Abe Lincoln packed up his few belongings and left for Springfield, then the new capital of Illinois. Thus ended the New Salem career of the Great Emancipator.

Lincoln Surveys Petersburg

While still a resident of New Salem, however, and while this region was still a part of Sangamon County, the future President was called upon to survey a new townsite; one that was to be called "Petersburg." At that time he was serving as deputy surveyor of Sangamon County. It was on February 22, 1836, that Lincoln's survey was placed on record, the survey having been made for Hezekiah King and John Taylor, two real estate promoters of the period.

But King and Taylor were not the first to plan a town here. At an earlier period (1831) two men, Peter Lukens and George Warburton, laid out a town at the same place and called it Petersburg after Lukens' given name. It did not materialize, however, and remained mostly a "paper town." Finally becoming discouraged, Lukens and Warburton sold their townsite to King and Taylor, and these two men, both energetic personalities, soon brought a booming town into existence.

Believed to have been the first to stake out a claim of land in or near present-day Petersburg was James Estep, who came in the spring of 1820 or 1821. A few months later his father, Elijah, and his brother, Enoch, arrived and also staked out claims. Cf James Estep afterwards moved to Baker's Prairie, east of the Sangamon, his father and brother remained at the future site of Petersburg, and here they built a log cabin and a small grist mill --- the first edifices to be constructed in what now is Petersburg.

Athens Founded

One of the oldest towns in Menard County today is Athens. It was platted in 1831 by James Stevenson, surveyor of Sangamon County. The founder of the town was the Reverend James Overstreet. Before Athens was laid out, however, it was the site of the first church to be built in future Menard County. This church was organized in 1820 by the Methodists of the region, and its first preacher is believed to have been the Reverend James Stringfield.

Menard County Created

By the late 1830's so many new settlers had arrived in the Sangamon River country northwest of Springfield that a movement was started for the formation of a new county. One of the leaders of this movement was William Engle, an early settler of Sugar Grove Township. He was later to become a county commissioner and a state legislator. When enough signatures were obtained on petitions, the matter of a new county was presented to the Illinois state legislature for action.

At that time, it happened that State Assemblyman Abraham Lincoln was chairman of the Assembly's committee on counties. When the early settlers of what are now Menard, Logan and Christian counties petitioned for the creation of their counties (all of which were then part of Sangamon County, Lincoln actively supported their cause in the state legislature. And thus it was that Abraham Lincoln not only helped to form Menard County but also Logan and Christian counties. All three counties were authorized by the state legislature on February 15, 1839.

Colonel Pierre Menard

When the new county on the Sangamon was organized, it was named after Colonel Pierre Menard, pioneer French-Canadian fur trader, presiding officer of the Illinois territorial legislature and first lieutenant-governor of the new State of Illinois. At the time Menard County was created, Colonel Menard was living in his fine old Louisiana-style mansion overlooking the Mississippi River, some fifty miles below East St. Louis. Here he continued to dwell until his death in 1844.

It was in 1791, when the future Prairie State was part of the Northwest Territory established by the newly-formed American republic, that Pierre Menard first arrived at Kaskaskia, an old French town on the Illinois side of the Mississippi above which Menard afterwards built his mansion. Here, after engaging in the fur trade, Menard opened a general store, prospered, and soon was an influential citizen of the community.

At a later date he was appointed a major, then a lieutenant-colonel, in the local militia. When this region became part of Indiana Territory, Governor William Henry Harrison appointed Colonel Menard a judge of the county Court at Kaskaskia. He held this position for ten years, or until Illinois became a separate territory.

Thereafter, Menard served as presiding officer of the Illinois territorial legislature. When the territory was admitted to statehood in 1818, with the state's first capital at Kaskaskia, he was elected the state's first lieutenant-governor under Governor Shadrach Bond, another Kaskaskian. Subsequently, Menard was appointed to an Indian commission by President John Quincy Adams, and, later, re-appointed by President Andrew Jackson.

Today, the old Menard residence below East St. Louis is an historic shrine maintained by the State of Illinois. It is located on its original site in Fort Kaskaskia State Park and is visited by several thousand tourists each year. The ancient plantation-style residence, painted white and characterized by a verandah across its facade, is outfitted with its original furniture and other household belongings, and, as such, is considered a distinctive period museum.

First Election

When Menard County was created in 1839, a board of three commissioners from outside the county selected Petersburg as county seat. There followed soon afterwards the new county's first election. The following officials were elected: George W. Simpson, William Engle and Joseph Watkins, members of the first county commissioners' court; James Goldsby, sheriff; Martin S. Morris, coroner; Edmund Greer, surveyor; William G. Spears, recorder; and Nathan Dresser, clerk of the commissioners' court. After these men took their oaths of office, the county commissioners appointed Jacob H. Laning as treasurer, fixing his bond at $1,000.

Early Road Districts

Just as Menard County is divided into road districts today, so was it partitioned when the county was first formed in 1839. At the first meeting of the commissioners' court the new county was divided into eleven road districts and the following early settlers were appointed road supervisors: Andrew Beard, Charles Clark, John Clary, William Watkins, Gaines Berry, Matthew Young, John Hornback, Coleman Smoot, John Wright, Edward Sykes and Thomas Blunt.

In addition to appointing road supervisors, the county commissioners' court had the authority of ordering all able-bodied males in the county between the ages of eighteen and fifty to do road work for five days a year or less, or in lieu of this to pay seventy-five cents for each day of the required number of days. The state law concerning counties also held that whenever the county commissioners received a petition from at least thirty five voters calling for the opening of a new road or the closing of an old one, they were required to appoint viewers, hear the viewers report, and act accordingly.

First Courthouse

In its beginning days, Menard County was without a courthouse. For about five years, the county transacted its business in temporary quarters. We are told that the first term of the county commissioners' court was held in a log storeroom or warehouse in Petersburg built by Septimus Levering. This structure measured about twenty by forty feet, and a wooden railing separated the judges and lawyers from the spectators. Another log building in Petersburg was used by the sheriff, clerk and recorder of the county. It was rented for $6 a month from John Taylor, one of the founders of Petersburg.

It was not until 1844 that Menard County saw the completion of of its first permanent courthouse. The contract for building it was let to Henry Dresser, who agreed to complete the work for $6,640. When finished, this first courthouse was observed to be, according to one account, in "the old Kentucky barn style of architecture and was the usual type of structure built in the neighboring counties in that day." This building served the county for the next twenty years, or until the time of the Civil War.

Mentor Graham Builds a Jail

Not least interesting about Mentor Graham, the village school-master at New Salem who helped educate Abraham Lincoln, who often invited the twenty-one-year old Abe to sit with the children in his log schoolhouse, is that he subsequently built Menard County's first jail. It appears that after leaving New Salem, Mentor Graham went to Petersburg and became something of a building contractor.

In any case, Mentor Graham is recorded as having received the contract to build the county's first jail. This was completed in 1844 and Graham received $300 for the work. In the following year however, the new jail was partially destroyed by fire, and the county commissioners' court ordered a reward of $20 to be paid to anyone who would bring about the arrest and conviction of the party, or parties, responsible for the fire. In the meantime, the jail was repaired and enlarged, and for this work, Renkin Ratford and William Beekman were paid $520 --- more than Mentor Graham received for erecting the original jail.

Tallula Platted

As the population of Menard County increased during its early years (in 1840 it had 4,431 inhabitants and in 1850 it had 6,340), new villages and towns were laid out, and many of these have survived to the present time. One such is the village of Tallula, in the southwest corner of the county. It was platted in 1857 by W. G. Greene, J. G. Greene, Richard Yates, T. Baker and W. G. Spears. It was Spears who bestowed the name "Tallula" on the new village; he said it was from an Indian word that meant "dropping water." Spears, it is to be recalled, was elected Menard's first county recorder.

Greenview is Born

Another early village that survived to the present is Greenview, which now has a population of 795. It is located near Salt Creek, in Greenview Township (Road District No. 3) and is served by the Chicago & Alton Railroad. Greenview was platted on October 2, 1857, by William Engle, early settler and one of the founding fathers of Menard County. It was named after William G. Greene, a prominent settler of pioneer times and one of the founders of the village of Tallula. The land on which Greenview stands was originally owned by Charles L. Montgomery. Greenview was incorporated as a village on May 6, 1860.

First Railroads

An important factor in the growth and development of Menard County was the building of railroads within its borders. Recorded as the first "steam" road to be constructed in the county is the Tonica and Petersburg, which was completed in 1861, or the opening year of the Civil War. Originally, this road had been incorporated in 1857 by Albert Reynolds, Elijah N. Farnsworth, Jesse Hammers, Henry R. Green, William Crow, Josiah Sawyer and Richard Yates. In 1861 this original railroad was completed from Jacksonville to Petersburg, a distance of twenty-eight miles. At a later date, it was consolidated with the Jacksonville, Alton and St. Louis Railroad. Today, it is part of the Chicago & Alton System, which has more than thirty-seven miles of track in the county. Other railroads serving the county today are the Chicago & Illinois Midland and the Chicago & North Western.

Roll of Honor

Menard County contributed generously of its manpower in the various wars fought during the course of American History. Before the county was organized, but within its future area, lived many men who volunteered as soldiers in the Black Hawk War of 1832. One company in that conflict, it is to be recalled, was captained by young, lanky Abe Lincoln of New Salem.

About eighty-three men of Menard County saw service in the Mexican War of 1846-1848. One company in that war, which was part of the 4th Illinois Regiment, was officered by Menard County men, these having been A. D. Wright, captain; William L. Clary, first lieutenant; Shelton Johnson, second lieutenant; and Robert Scott, third lieutenant.

In regard to the Civil War of 1861-1865, Menard County quickly responded to the call for troops sent out by President Lincoln, the man who once lived in the area that became Menard County, the man who surveyed its county seat town of Petersburg. In the Menard, Salem and Lincoln Souvenir Album, issued in 1893 by the Illinois Women's Columbian Club of Menard County, are these words: "The sons of Menard answered the call for troops issued by President Lincoln promptly."

The Album continues: "On the 25th of April, Company E, of the 14th Regiment, was mustered into service. The company contained eighty men, and was officered as follows: A. E. Johnson, captain; J. M. Early, first lieutenant; E. A. Norton, second lieutenant; and A. J. Gillespie, third lieutenant. At every subsequent call a like promptness was shown until Menard County furnished to the service 1,084 men, and of this number 184 laid down their lives for the preservation of the Union."

A New Jail is Built

After having served the county for more than thirty years, the jail built by Mentor Graham, schoolmaster friend of Abe Lincoln's, finally reached the end of its usefulness and the Board of County Commissioners made plans for a new, and larger, jailhouse. This was built in 1870 and included a jailor's residence as well as county lockup. It was completed at a cost of $15,000 by Diederich Fisher, a building contractor of the period.

Railroad Town

With the coming of the railroads to Menard County, numerous villages and towns were platted along their rights-of-way. One town was thus born is Oakford, located in the northwest corner of the county on the Chicago & Illinois Midland Railroad and which today has a population of 231. It was surveyed and platted in March, 1872, A. J. Kelly, county surveyor. He laid out the town for its founders, William Oakford and William Colson. We are told that Colson gave half of the land for the townsite to Oakford in recognition of his having secured passage of the railroad through the proposed town.

Edgar Lee Masters

When a young Menard County lawyer named Hardin Wallace Masters was elected state's attorney of the county in 1872, he moved with his family into a modest white cottage in Petersburg, the county seat town. For a year or two previously, he had attempted farming near the village of Atterbury, in the western part of the county.

Now that Hardin Wallace Masters was state's attorney of the county, he received from his father, Squire Masters, a well-to-do farmer of the region, the gift of a cottage in Petersburg. And when Hardin Masters moved into this cottage, with him came his three-year-old son, Edgar Lee Masters. Thus began the Menard County career of the late Edgar Lee Masters, renowned American poet and author. He is best known for his classic Spoon River Anthology, a volume of poetic epithaphs of the Spoon River country in nearby Fulton County.

It was in Petersburg that Edgar Lee Masters spent his boyhood and here are located many episodes and scenes in his autobiography, Across Spoon River. Describing his boyhood home in Petersburg, Masters wrote: "This was a small house and common enough; but there was a large yard and trees and a barn. Later, my father built an addition to the house; but it had neither water save from a well nor heat save from stoves. and in winter it was cold as the arctic."

Young Edgar lived in this cottage until he was eleven years old, when his family moved to Lewistown, in Fulton County. After becoming a leading American poet, Masters wrote almost as many books of prose as poetry, and one of these was Lincoln the Man, a biography. Masters died in Philadelphia in 1950 at the age of eighty-one. Since then, his boyhood home in Petersburg, located at 526 Monroe Street, has become something of a literary landmark.

New Courthouse

With the rapid growth of population in the decades after the Civil war and with a consequent increase in county business, the need for a modern, spacious courthouse became more and more urgent in Menard County. And thus it was that in 1897 a new courthouse was built; one that is still in use today.

This courthouse was constructed by J. Yeager, a son of Danville, Illinois, at a cost of $46,000. While it was under construction, the Board of County Commissioners held their sessions in the Harris "Guards" Opera House in Petersburg, for which they paid $1.75 per day rental fee. Standing in the center of the Petersburg public square, the Menard County Courthouse of today is an ornate three-story edifice of stone and brick construction, surmounted by a copper-covered dome.

New Salem State Park

When Petersburg became the seat of Menard County in 1830, almost everybody in New Salem village moved to the new seat of justice. In time New Salem became a "deserted village," and eventually nothing was left of it but the ruins of a log cabin or two. And thus it was when, in 1906, the famed American newspaper publisher, William Randolph Hearst, bought the land on which New Salem stood and presented it to the Old Salem Chautauqua Association, a Menard County group.

This marked the beginning of the restoration of New Salem, which now is one of America's most renowned historical restorations. Popularly known as "The Lincoln Village" because of Lincoln's life there from 1831 to 1837, New Salem State Park (now maintained by the State of Illinois) is an area of 230 acres on which stands the restored village of New Salem. Some twenty-three cabins, including seven shops, the carding mill, school and church, saw and grist mill and the Rutledge Tavern, have been faithfully reproduced and furnished as they were in Lincoln's time.

Most of the furnishings of these cabins were family heirlooms of old Menard County families, the descendants of whom donated the articles to the New Salem Lincoln League. The restored pioneer village was dedicated and opened to the public in 1933 at ceremonies in which Governor Henry Horner was the principal speaker. As one of America's foremost Lincoln scholars, the late Governor Horner acquired a rare collection of Lincoln books, and this collection is now part of the library of the Illinois State Historical Society.

Lincoln National Memorial Highway

Western terminus of the great Lincoln National Memorial Highway, which follows the trail of the Lincoln family in moving from Indiana to Illinois in 1830 and which follows young Abe Lincoln's steps further, is New Salem State Park, in Menard County. Beginning in Indiana, the memorial highway crosses the Wabash River at Vincennes, which was the point where Thomas Lincoln and his family ferried over to the Illinois side of the river.

Then the route traces the footsteps of the Lincoln family to Decatur, just outside of which the first Lincoln home in Illinois was built. It continues to Springfield, where Lincoln lived when he was elected President and where his tomb is now located. Finally, the memorial highway comes to its western end at New Salem State Park and Petersburg, seat of Menard County.

Menard County Today

Aside from its important Lincoln associations, Menard County, as we have said, is one of the leading agricultural counties of the great Grain Belt of central Illinois. On the basis of latest United States census figures, the county in 1950 had a total population of 9,639. It has a land area of 312 square miles.

Its principal city and county seat, Petersburg, had a population of 2,325. Of the county's total population, 5,816 inhabitants were classified as rural non-farm dwellers and 3,823 as rural farm dwellers. There were 988 infants under five years of age in the county in 1950 and 1,272 persons sixty-five years old and over; the median age was given as 33.6 years. The county also had 6,394 potential voters.

Under the heading of vital statistics, Menard had 201 births in 1950. It also had 118 deaths, of which six were infants. That same year there were 79 marriages performed. The total number of families (two or persons related by marriage or blood) in the county was 2,455. The median income of all of these families was given as $2,849. The figures showed further that 29.7 per cent of all families had an income of less than $2,000, and 16.5 had an income of $5,000 or more.

In the field of education, Menard County in 1950 had 1,675 young persons between the ages of seven and seventeen years. Of this total, 1,085 were between the ages of seven and thirteen (primary school age), and 96.0 per cent of the latter were enrolled in primary schools. Of young persons between the ages of fourteen and seventeen (high school age), there were 495, and 90.8 per cent of these were enrolled in high schools. Concerning all persons in the county twenty-five years old and over, the figures show that the median number of school years they completed was 8.9. A little more than 7 per cent of these had less than five grades of schooling, while 32.0 per cent had high school and college educations. The institutional (asylums, etc.) population of the country in 1950 was 43.

That same year the county had a potential labor force (persons fourteen years old and over) of 7,266, and of this total 3,523 were actually employed (79.5 per cent of whom were males, and 18.4 per cent females). Of the total number of employed, the largest number were engaged in agriculture (1,369), and the second largest group were engaged in wholesale and retail trade (420). There were 284 employed in manufacturing, 232 in transportation, communication and other public utilities, 214 in professional and related services, 178 in construction, 176 in business and personal services, 142 in finance, insurance and real estate, and 123 in mining. The labor force figures conclude by showing that 39.5 per cent of the total employed are engaged in agriculture and 8.2 per cent in manufacturing.

On the subject of housing, Menard County had 3,289 dwelling units in 1950 (in 1940 it had 3,156). The median number of rooms per unit was 5.2. More than 93 per cent were one-dwelling unit detached structures, and 36.3 per cent had hot running water and private toilet and bath. More than 59 per cent of the dwelling units were owner occupied, 41.6 per cent had central heating, 85.1 per cent had mechanical refrigerators, and 96.6 per cent had radios. There were 2,098 houses classified as non-farm dwelling units, and the median value of these was given as $4,380.

Under the heading of retail trade, the county in 1948 (when the last business census was taken) had a total of 131 stores, which that year grossed $6,644,000 in sales. The largest number of retail establishments were food stores, of which there were 28 and which grossed $1,481,000 in sales. The second largest group were eating and drinking places (26), which grossed $687,000.

In the wholesale field, there were 27 wholesale houses in the county in 1948 and these grossed $6,560,000 in sales. There were 32 establishments that came under the heading of personal, business and repair services, and these had receipts totaling $248,000. According to the 1947 census (when last taken in this field), Menard County had 9 manufacturing establishments which sold goods and products in the amount of $421,000 and which employed 97 persons.

There were 940 farms in the county in 1950 and 852 of these were classified as commercial farms. The average value of land and buildings per farm for all farms was given as $39,065. The total value of all farm products (crops, livestock, poultry, dairy products) sold in 1949, which was four years after the close of World War II, was $9,745,000. Farm expenditures that year were $963,000 for feed for livestock and poultry $475,000 for hired labor.

CITY of PETERSBURG

Located on the historic Sangamon River in almost the geographical center of Menard County is that county's seat of justice and largest city, Petersburg. In 1950 it had a total population of 2,325. The city is served by the Gulf, Mobile & Ohio and the Chicago & Illinois Midland railroads and by state highways 97 and 123. It is the principal community of Petersburg Precinct, which has a population of 3,074. Petersburg is coterminus with Road District No. 8.

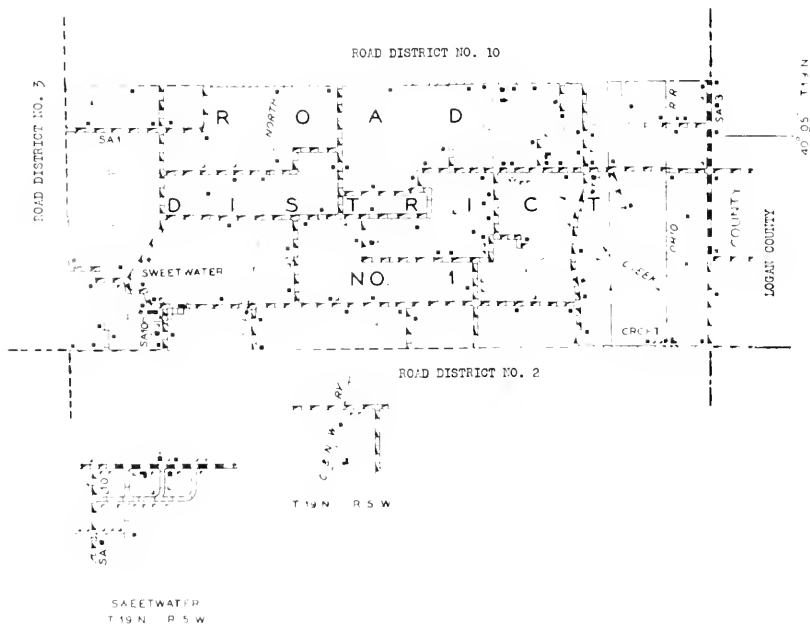

It was in 1836 that the site of Petersburg was surveyed by Abraham Lincoln, who at that time was deputy surveyor of Sangamon County (which then included the region that afterwards became Menard County). Two miles south of Petersburg, on state highways 123 and 97, lies New Salem State Park, popularly known as "The Lincoln Village." It is one of America's most famous historical restorations and is visited by thousands of tourists each year.

SWEETWATER

Principal community of Road District No. 1 is the village of Sweetwater, which in 1950 had a population of 95. It is located on the Chicago & North Western Railroad. The village is also in Sugar Grove Precinct, which has a population of 395. The precinct derived its name from the sugar-making activities of Indians in the locality. First settler of the precinct was Judge James Latham, who came in the spring of 1819, many years before Menard County was organized. A later settler here was William Engle, one of the founders of the county.

CROFT

Another community in Road District No. 1 is the hamlet of Croft. It is on the Gulf, Mobile & Ohio Railroad and is served by the post-office at nearby Athens.

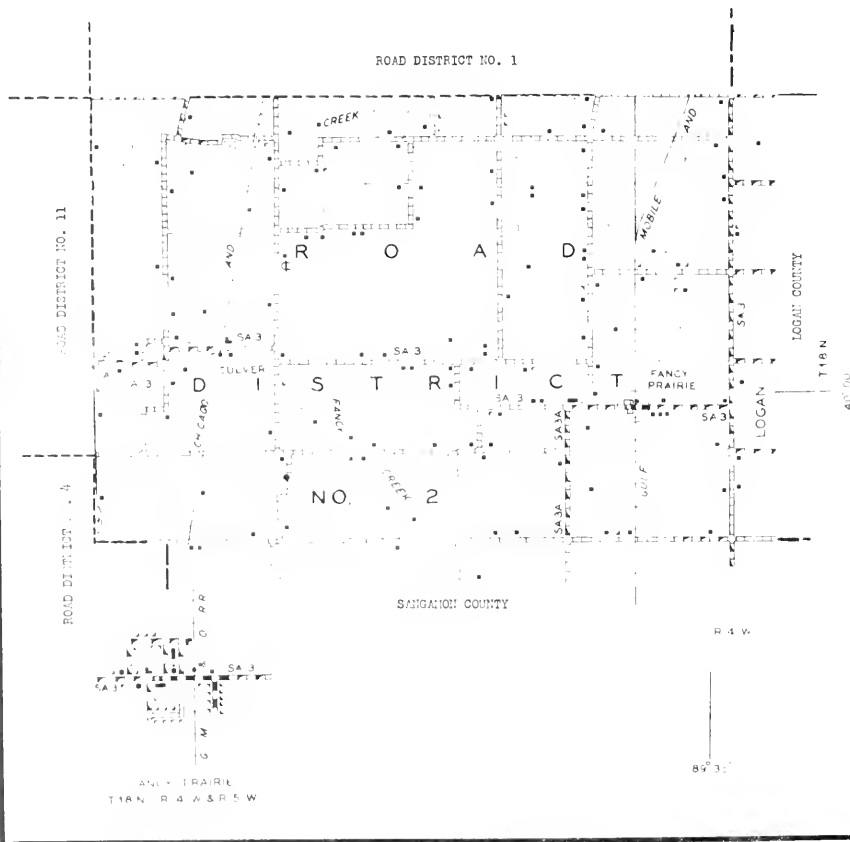

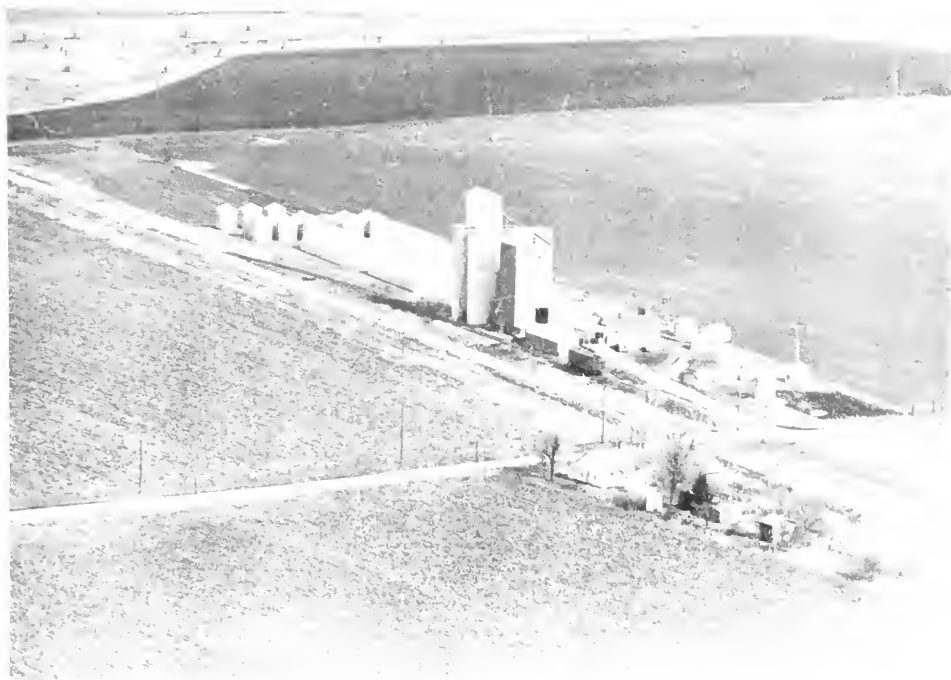

FANCY PRAIRIE

The village of Fancy Prairie has a population of 110 and is located in the southeastern corner of Menard County. It is served by the Gulf, Mobile & Ohio Railroad. Fancy Prairie is the principal community of Road District No. 2. It is also in Fancy Prairie Precinct, which has a total population of 357. This precinct is entirely devoted to agriculture.

ATHENS

One of the oldest towns in the county, Athens today has a population of 1,048. It is located on the Chicago & Illinois Midland Railroad and on State 29. Although it is situated within the boundaries of Road District No. 4, Athens is also coterminus with Road District No. 13. It is, furthermore, in Athens Precinct, which now has a population of 1,595. The town of Athens was platted in 1831 by James Stevenson, surveyor of Sangamon County (which then included the region of future Menard County). Founder of the town was the Reverend John Overstreet, a pioneer minister.

T I C E

Also in Road District No. 4 is the village of Tice. It is located on the Chicago & Illinois Midland Railroad and is served by the post-office at nearby Petersburg. The village, which has a population of 20, is also in Petersburg Precinct.

OAKFORD

The village of Oakford was platted in 1872 by A. J. Kelly, surveyor of Sangamon County, for William Oakford and William Colson. It is said that Colson gave half the land on which the village is located to Oakford for obtaining passage of the railroad through it. The village is situated on the Chicago & Illinois Midland Railroad and on State 97. It is part of Road District No. 5 as well as Oakford Precinct. The precinct has a total population of 160 and the village a population of 281.

NOTE: ROAD DISTRICT NO. 8 IS COTERMINUS WITH THE CITY OF PETERSBURG

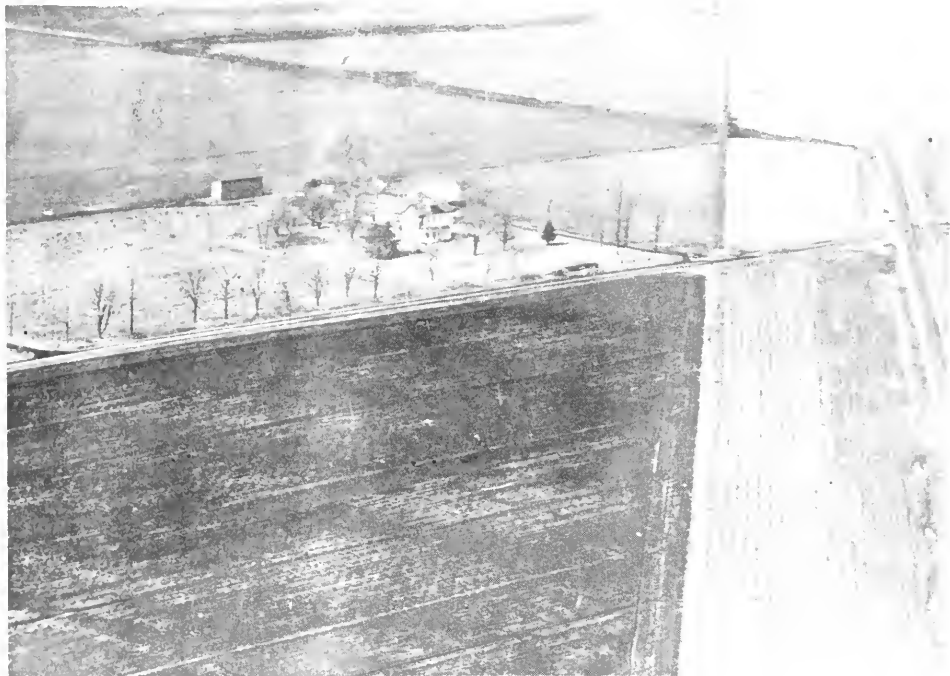

PETERSBURG

For a description of Petersburg, see "City of Petersburg" in the first part of this section of the present work. In addition to having a road district of its own (No. 8), Petersburg is within the borders of Road District No. 6, which embraces parts of Petersburg, Atterberry and Tallula precincts.

ROAD DISTRICT NO. 11

In the center of Menard County, and entirely devoted to agriculture, lies Road District No. 11. At its western border is situated the county seat town of Petersburg. The district is traversed, from east to west, by State 123 and by a meandering stream, Indian Creek. There are no towns or villages in the area. Road District No. 11 embraces parts of Petersburg, Athens and Indian Creek precincts.

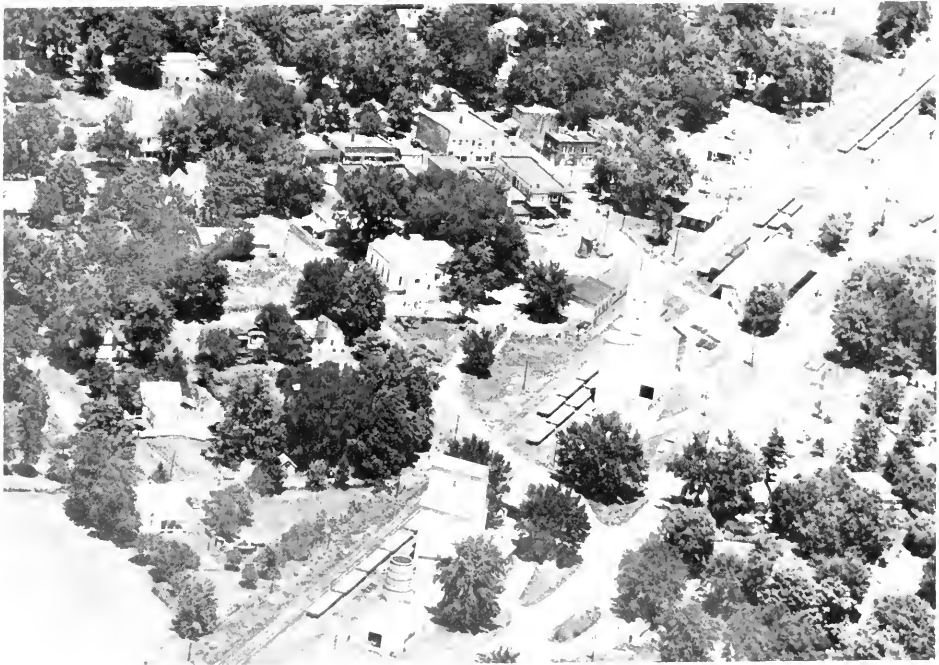

HILL TOP

Another community in Road District No. 6 is the small hamlet of Hill Top. It is situated on the Chicago & Illinois Midland Railroad and is served by the postoffice at nearby Petersburg.

NEW SALEM STATE PARK

Two miles south of Petersburg, on state highways 123 and 97, is situated New Salem State Park, popularly known as "The Lincoln Village." It is one of America's most famous historical restorations and is visited by thousands of tourists each year. This restored log cabin village is located in Road District No. 6 and is described at length in the opening historical narrative of this work.

TALLULA

Although the village of Tallula has a road district of its own (No. 12), it is also within the borders of Road District No. 7, which embraces Tallula Precinct. The village has a present population of 527 and is situated in the southwest portion of Menard County on the Gulf, Mobile & Ohio Railroad as well as on State 123.

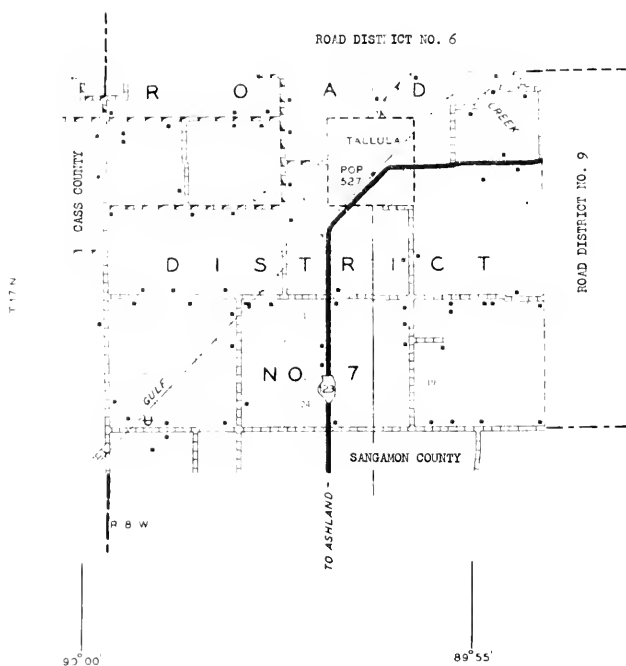

Tallula village was laid out in 1857 by W. G. Greene, J. G. Greene, Richard Yates, T. Baker and W. G. Spears. It was incorporated as a village in 1871. The village was given its name by W. G. Spears, who explained that the word meant "dropping water" in Indian language. The population of Tallula Precinct today is 903.

ROAD DISTRICT NO. 10

HUBLY

Only community of Road District No. 10 is a small hamlet of Hubly, situated in the northeast corner of Menard County not far from Salt Creek. It is located on the Chicago & North Western Railroad and is served by the postoffice at nearby Sweetwater. Hubly is also situated in Irish Grove Precinct, which has a total population of 405. The precinct is bordered on the east by Logan County.

ROAD DISTRICT NO. 9

In the southern portion of Menard County, on the Sangamon River, lies Road District No. 9. It is entirely devoted to agriculture and does not contain any towns or villages. Through the district run state highways 123 and 97, which lead directly to New Salem State Park, lying just north of the region. Road District No. 9 embraces Rock Creek Precinct, which derives its name from a stream within its borders, Rock Creek. The precinct is bounded on the south by Sangamon County.

Troy Weight.

24 grains=1 pwt. 12 ounces=1 pound.
20 pwts.=1 ounce.

Used for weighing gold, silver and jewels.

Apothecaries' Weight.

20 grains=1 scruple. 8 drams=1 ounce.
3 scruples=1 dram. 12 ounces=1 pound

The ounce and pound in this are the same as in Troy weight.

Avoirdupois Weight.

27 11-32 grains=1 dram. 4 quarters=1 cwt.
16 drams=1 ounce. 2,000 lbs.=1 short ton

16 ounces=1 pound.
25 lbs.=1 quarter.

Dry Measure.

2 pints=1 quart. 4 peck. 1 bushel.
8 quarts=1 peck. 36 bush.—1 chaldron.

Liquid Measure

4 gills=1 pint.
2 pints=1 quart.
4 quarts=1 gallon.

Time Measure.

60 seconds=1 minute. 24 hours=1 day.
60 minutes=1 hour. 7 days=1 week.
28, 29, 30 or 31 days=1 calendar month.
(30 days=1 month in computing interest.)
365 days=1 year. 366 days=1 leap year.

Long Measure,

12 inches=1 foot.	40 rods=1 furlong.
3 feet=1 yard.	8 furlong=1 sta. mile.
5½ yards=1 rod.	8 miles=1 league.

Cloth Measure.

2¼ inches=1 nail, 4 quarters=1 yard
4 nails=1 quarter.

Square Measure.

144 sq. inches = 1 sq. foot. 40 sq. rods = 1 rood.
9 sq. feet = 1 sq. yard. 4 roods = 1 acre.
30¼ sq. yards = 1 sq. rod. 640 acres = 1 sq. mile.

ALABASTER. Use strong soap and water.

BLACK SILK. Brush and wipe it thoroughly, lay on table with the side intended to show, up; sponge with hot coffee strained through muslin; when partly dry, iron.

TO REMOVE STAINS or GREASE FROM OIL PAINT. Use bisulphide of carbon, spirits of turpentine, or if it is dry and old, use chloroform. These and tar spots can be softened with olive oil and lard.

RUST FROM STEEL. Take half ounce of emery powder mixed with one ounce of soap and rub well.

FRUIT SPOTS FROM COTTONS. Apply cold soap, then touch the spot with a hair pencil or feather dipped in chlorate of soda, dip immediately in cold water.

GREASE FROM SILKS. Take a lump of magnesia, rub it wet on the spot, let it dry, then brush the powder off.

IRON RUST may be removed from white goods by sour milk.

SCORCH STAINS FROM WHITE LINEN Lay in bright sun.

MILDEW. Moisten the spot with clean water: rub on it a thick coating of castile soap mixed with rub on it a thick coating of castile soap mixed with chalk scrapings; rub with end of finger, then wash off.

OIL MARKS ON WALL PAPER. Apply paste of cold water and pipe clay, leave it on all night, brush off in the morning.

PAINT SPOT FROM CLOTHING. Saturate with equal parts turpentine and spirits of ammonia.
TO CLEANSE HOUSE PAPER. Rub a flannel cloth dipped in oatmeal.

BLACK CLOTH. Mix one part of spirits of ammonia with three parts warm water, rub with sponge or dark cloth, clean with water, rub with the nap.

FINGER MARKS FROM FURNITURE. Rub with a soft rag and sweet oil.

CHROMOS. Go over lightly with a damp linen cloth.

ZINC. Rub with a piece of cotton cloth dipped in kerosene, afterwards with a dry cloth.

VEGETABLE STAINS FROM HANDS. Rub with a slice of raw potato.

WINDOW GLASS. Paint can be removed by a strong solution of soda.

TECHNICAL DATA.

To find diameter of a circle multiply circumference by .31831.
 To find circumference of a circle multiply diameter by 3.1416.
 To find area of a circle multiply square of diameter by .7854.
 To find surface of a ball multiply square of diameter by 3.1416.
 To find side of an equal square multiply diameter by .8662.
 To find cubic inches in a ball multiply cube of diameter by .5236.
 Doubling the diameter of a pipe increases its capacity four times.
 Double riveting is from 16 to 20 per cent, stronger than single.
 One cubic foot of anthracite coal weighs about 53 pounds.
 One cubic foot of bituminous coal weighs from 47 to 50 pounds.
 One ton of coal is equivalent to two cords of wood for steam purposes.
 A gallon of water (U. S. Standard) weighs 8½ lbs. and contains 231 cubic inches.
 There are nine square feet of heating surface to each square foot of grate surface.
 A cubic foot of water contains 7½ gallons, 1728 cubic inches, and weighs 62½ lbs.
 Each nominal horse power of a boiler requires 30 to 35 lbs. of water per hour.
 To sharpen dull files lay them in dilute sulphuric acid until they are eaten deep enough.
 A horse power is equivalent to raising 33,000 lbs. one foot per minute, or 550 lbs. one foot per second.
 The average consumption of coal for steam boilers is 12 lbs. per hour for each square foot of grate surface.
 To find the pressure in pounds per square inch of a column of water, multiply the height of the column in feet by .434
 Steam rising from water at its boiling point (212 degrees) has a pressure equal to the atmosphere (14.7 lbs. to the square inch).

Surveyors' Measure

Knots and Miles

Source: United States Coast and Geodetic Survey

The U. S. Statute Mile is 5,280 feet in length. On the Continent most of the old miles, which varied in length from about 3,300 feet to over 36,000 feet, have been replaced, officially at least, by the kilometer, which equals 0.6214 statute mile or 3,280.8 feet.

The Nautical, Geographic, or Sea Mile at any place is considered, for purposes of navigation, to be equal to the length of one minute of latitude at that place.

The U. S. Nautical Mile is 6,080.20 feet in length and equal to one-sixtieth of a degree of a great circle of a sphere whose surface is equal in area to the area of the surface of the earth (Clarke's spheroid of 1866).

The Knot is a measure of speed; a speed of one knot being a speed of one nautical mile an hour.

A Nautical Mile — 1.1516 statute miles; a Fathom — 6 feet; a Cable — 100 fathoms or 600 feet or approximately 0.1 nautical mile.

To convert statute miles into nautical miles, multiply statute miles by 0.8684; to convert nautical miles into statute miles, multiply nautical miles by 1.1516, or roughly 11/7.

United States Air Forces and the Navy use the knot as the standard aeronautical unit of speed and the nautical mile as the corresponding unit of distance.
